Welcome back to this week's edition of Music On Mondays! This past week, I couldn't shake the urge to tackle some closet cleaning, and you can bet these tunes were the perfect soundtrack. Take a listen and maybe they'll make their way onto your own Spring cleaning playlist.

Powerhouse Vocalist Lauren Alaina Releases “Household”

Grand Ole Opry member and powerhouse vocalist Lauren Alaina releases her blazing new song “Household” and its official music video following her recent milestone achievement earning RIAA Diamond-certification alongside peer and childhood friend Kane Brown on the smash “What Ifs.”

Exemplifying Alaina's “radio-perfection country tracks—augmented by her soulful, expressive vocal cords” (American Songwriter), “Household” was written alongside Casey Brown, Lydia Vaughan, and Parker Welling and produced by hitmaker Joey Moi. The fiery new track depicts the strain of a tumultuous relationship and cleverly asks: How much Hell can a household?

“'Household' is the perfect blend of southern grit and sass,” shares Alaina. “We have all been in a 'how much hell can household' scenario. I wrote this song after listening to one of my best friends vent about her relationship. It may not reflect my own marriage, but I think it showcases my personality flawlessly.”

Allison Asarch Honors Loved Ones with Alzheimer’s in Emotional New Single "Big Apple Red"

Allison Asarch is back with a powerful new single, "Big Apple Red," a deeply personal and emotional song inspired by a real-life encounter while getting a manicure. The track, which touches on the challenges of caring for loved ones with dementia or Alzheimer's, has earned a nomination for The Rocky Mountain Songwriting Contest, to be held in Red Lodge, Montana, this June.

"Big Apple Red," a nod to Asarch's favorite OPI nail polish color, was inspired by a chance meeting in the salon, where Asarch observed an older woman repeatedly asking the same questions. The subtle signs of cognitive decline in the woman reminded Asarch of her own great-grandmother, who passed away at the age of 105.

"I wrote this song because I wanted to capture the sentimental impact of caring for someone who is slowly losing their memory," says Asarch. "It's about the little moments that connect us to our loved ones, even when they seem to forget. My great-grandmother always dressed up, even in her later years, and I'll always remember how she'd ask where her purse was, even though she brought it in herself. It's these small details that stay with us."

Priscilla Block is Having A "Yard Sale"

Today, Country powerhouse Priscilla Block releases her highly anticipated new song “Yard Sale”. The upbeat, sassy country anthem is packed with humor and wit and leaves listeners smiling and singing along to the catchy chorus.

Reminiscent of 90s country divas with her direct approach, “Yard Sale” combines the best of relatable, entertaining storytelling with the bold spirit of a woman taking control after a split. In the track, Block takes a clever and comedic look at the aftermath of a breakup. Instead of wallowing in despair, she turns the tables by selling off her ex’s belongings at a yard sale, cashing in on his stuff while embracing her newfound freedom. The song, with its playful lyrics and upbeat, toe-tapping melody, is a declaration of independence and empowerment, all wrapped up in a fun, country-infused package.

Lucie Tiger Debuts New Single “Tequila Talking”

Country-rock sensation Lucie Tiger is on the rise with her brand-new single, ‘Tequila Talking”. This song is the first release from her upcoming record and was recorded in Muscle Shoals.

Tequila Talking is a lively tribute to the thrill of music, adventure, and the excitement of late-night escapades. With its captivating rhythm and smooth Southern flair, this country-rock anthem sets the perfect tone for a night to remember. It’s not just a track; it’s a salute to daring decisions, unforgettable memories, and the magnetic allure of letting loose.

Thomas Rhett’s “What Could Go Right?” Gets the Duo Treatment with Lanie Gardner

Thomas Rhett has shared how his friendship with his wife, Lauren, blossomed into something more after he finally gathered the courage to ask her out. The track "What Could Go Right" beautifully captures that nervous excitement and uncertainty of the early days of their relationship.

The song is featured on his seventh studio album, About a Woman, which was released on August 23. The album was preceded by singles like "Beautiful As You," "Overdrive," "Gone Country," and "After All The Bars Are Closed."

Six months after the album dropped, "What Could Go Right" was given a fresh twist when Thomas teamed up with rising star Lanie Gardner for a duet. Lanie's warm, soulful vocals bring an added layer of emotion to the track, offering a heartfelt female perspective and enriching the song's already poignant story.
